PREFACE

COSHOCTON COUNTY, OHIO

DEATH RECORDS INDEX

1909 thru 1953

Special thanks to the Coshocton Probate Court who gave their approval for the Society to copy the following death records on file. It must be stressed here, that this project was not limited in scope to one individual, but was developed by a number of members of the Coshocton County Genealogical Society who have unselfishly volunteered countless hours on this project. Every effort was made to carefully reproduce information exactly as it was on the cards.

Old Disease Names

By Sylvain Cazalet

This is a glossary of terms used to describe diseases in times gone by. I have generally, but not invariably, omitted terms that can be found in a modern medical dictionary. I have also included a few terms that appear in Bills of Mortality that are not strictly diseases.

A

Abasia: Hysterical inability to walk or stand.
Abdominal Angina: Term used to describe recurrent, severe and sudden abdominal pain in the elderly. It is used today to mean pain resulting from a poor blood supply to the bowel but in the past it could also mean diverticular disease/diverticulosis.
Abdominal Phthisis: Tuberculosis of the abdominal lymph nodes.
Ablepsy: Blindness.
Abortus Fever: Brucellosis.
Acetabulum: Hip Socket. A part of the pelvis.
Achor: Eruption on the scalp.
Acromion: Bony prominence above the shoulder; the lateral (Away from the mid-line i.e. at the side) end of the spine of the scapula.
Addison's disease: A disease characterized by severe weakness, low blood pressure, and a bronzed coloration of the skin, due to decreased secretion of cortisol from the adrenal gland. Dr. Thomas Addison (1793-1860), born near Newcastle, England, described the disease in 1855. Synonyms: Morbus addisonii, bronzed skin disease.
Adynamia: lack of movement or strength as a result of disease; helplessness.
Affrighted: Frightened to death. Probably a stress-induced heart attack or stroke.
Ague: Any intermittent fever characterized by periods of chills, fevers and sweats. Most commonly identified as malaria. Malarial Fever. Malarial or intermittent fever characterized by paroxysms (stages of chills, fever, and sweating at regularly recurring times) and followed by an interval or intermission whose length determines the epithets: quotidian, tertian, quartan, and quintan ague (defined in the text). Popularly, the disease was known as "fever and ague," "chill fever," "the shakes," and by names expressive of the locality in which it was prevalent—such as, "Swamp fever" (in Louisiana), "Panama fever," and "Chagres fever."
Ague-cake: A form of enlargement of the spleen, resulting from the action of malaria on the system.
Ægrotantem: Illness, sickness.
Æsculapius: The Roman god of healing.
Ague: Usually malaria but can be any feverish illness with fits of shivering.
Ainhum: Stricture resulting from minor cuts at the base of a digit eventually resulting in amputation.
Aleppo Boil: Leishmaniasis.

A

Albuminuria: Presence of protein in the urine. Found in many kidney diseases e.g. Diabetic nephropathy, hypertensive nephropathy, glomerulonephritis and nephrotic syndrome.
Amaurosis: Blindness (partial or complete).
Amenorrhoea: Absence of menstruation. Usually applied to the reproductive years, so the usual cause is pregnancy.
American plague: Yellow fever.
Anasarca: Generalized massive edema. Generalized massive dropsy.
Ancome: A whitlow, an ulcerous swelling.
Aneurysm: A local ballooning of a blood vessel. Usually an artery.
Angina: Literally means choking. Often used for angina pectoris i.e. pain from the heart.
Anthracosis: Lung disease caused by inhalation of coal dust. A form of pneumoconiosis.
Aphonia: Laryngitis.
Aphtha: The infant disease "thrush".
Apoplex / Apoplexy: Paralysis due to stroke.
Ascites: Dropsy. Abnormal collection of fluid within the abdomen. Often due to liver disease, especially secondary cancer, but can result from heart or kidney failure.
Asphycsia/Asphicsia: Cyanotic and lack of oxygen.
Ataxia: Inability to co-ordinate movement i.e. Clumsiness.
Atheroma: Slow degeneration of arteries when fatty deposits collect on the inner lining.
Atrophy: Wasting away or diminishing in size.

B

Bad Blood: Syphilis. Barber's Itch: Infection of the hair follicles of the beard area. May be impetigo.

Bilious fever: A term loosely applied to intestinal fevers and malarial fever. Typhoid, malaria, hepatitis or elevated temperature and bile emesis.
Biliousness: Jaundice associated with liver disease. A complex of symptoms comprising nausea, abdominal discomfort, headache, and constipation—formerly attributed to excessive secretion of bile from the liver.
Black Death: Bubonic plague.
Black fever: Acute infection with high temperature and dark red skin lesions and high mortality rate.
Black plague: Bubonic plague.
Black pox: Black Small pox.
Black vomit: Vomiting old black blood due to ulcers or yellow fever.

B

Blackwater fever: Dark urine associated with high temperature. Severe form of malaria in which the urine contains so much blood it appears black.
Bladder In Throat: Diphtheria.
Boil: An abscess of skin or painful, circumscribed inflammation of the skin or a hair follicle, having a dead, pus-forming inner core, usually caused by a staphylococcal infection. Synonym: furuncle.
Bloody Flux: Dysentery involving a discharge of blood. Bloody stools.
Blood poisoning: Bacterial infection; septicæmia.
Bloody sweat: Sweating sickness.
Bone shave: Sciatica.
Brain fever: Meningitis or typhus.
Breakbone: Dengue fever.

Bronze John: Yellow fever.
Brucellosis: Disease resulting from drinking contaminated milk. Causes a feverish illness of variable duration often with joint problems and frequently depression.
Bubo: Inflamed, enlarged or painful gland in the groin. A symptom of bubonic plague.
Bule: Boil, tumor or swelling.
Bursa: Small sac (closed bag) made of fibrous tissue and filled with a fluid. Usually occur close to a joint and allow moving surfaces like bones and tendons to move around each other with less friction.

C

Cachæmia: Any blood disease.
Cachexy: Malnutrition.
Cacogastric: Upset stomach.
Cacospysy: Irregular pulse.
Caduceus: Subject to falling sickness or epilepsy.
Camp Diarrhœa: Typhus. Typhoid fever.
Camp fever: Typhus; aka Camp diarrhea.

C

Cancrum Oris: A severe, destructive, eroding ulcer of the cheek and lip, rapidly proceeding to sloughing. In the last century it was seen in delicate, ill-fed, ill-tended children between the ages of two and five. The disease was the result of poor hygiene acting upon a debilitated system. It commonly followed one of the eruptive fevers and was often fatal. The destructive disease could, in a few days, lead to gangrene of the lips, cheeks, tonsils, palate, tongue, and even half the face; teeth would fall from their sockets, and a horribly fetid saliva flowed from the parts. Synonyms: canker, water canker, noma, gangrenous stomatitis, gangrenous ulceration of the mouth.
Candida: Thrush – a fungal infection.
Canine Madness: Rabies, hydrophobia.
Canker: A severe, destructive, eroding ulcer of the cheek and lip. It commonly followed one of the eruptive fevers and was often fatal. Ulceration of mouth or lips or herpes simplex.

T

Tabes Dorsalis: Syphilis of the spinal cord.

Tabes mesenterica: Tuberculosis of the mesenteric glands in children, resulting in digestive derangement and wasting of the body.

Teeth: Death of an infant when teething. Children appear to have been more susceptible to infection during this time, although malnutrition from being fed watered milk has also been suggested as a cause.

Teething: The entire process which results in the eruption of the teeth. Nineteenth-century medical reports stated that infants were more prone to disease at the time of teething. Symptoms were restlessness, fretfulness, convulsions, diarrhœa, and painful and swollen gums. The latter could be relieved by lancing over the protruding tooth. Often teething was reported as a cause of death in infants. Perhaps they became susceptible to infections, especially if lancing was performed without antisepsis. Another explanation of teething as a cause of death is that infants were often weaned at the time of teething; perhaps they then died from drinking contaminated milk, leading to an infection, or from malnutrition if watered-down milk was given.

Tenesmus: Painful and unsuccessful desire to defaecate ; cramp form the muscles of the anal sphincter.

Tetanus: An infectious, often-fatal disease characterised by respiratory paralysis and tonic spasms and rigidity of the voluntary muscles, especially those of the neck and lower jaw. The bacterium enters the body through wounds. Infectious fever characterized by high fever, headache and dizziness.

Womb fever: Infection of the uterus.
Worm Fit: Convulsions associated with teething, worms, elevated temperature or diarrhœa.

Y

Yellow fever: An acute, often-fatal, infectious febrile disease of warm climates—caused by a virus transmitted by mosquitoes, especially Aledes ægypti, and characterised by liver damage and jaundice, fever, and protein in the urine. In 1900 Walter Reed and others in Panama found that mosquitoes transmit the disease. Clinicians in. the late nineteenth century recognised "specific yellow fever" as being different from "malarious yellow fever." The latter supposedly was a form of malaria with liver involvement but without urine involvement.
Yellowjacket: Yellow fever.

(1) Most of the definitions of diseases in the glossary that follows are from medical dictionaries or medical texts compiled at different points in the nineteenth century. While I have tried to submit the best-possible interpretation of these terms, there are certainly other interpretations which may be valid. I don't guarantee that all definitions are 100% correct.
